From: Jessica Loudis <jloudis@gmail.com>

To: barriticus@gmail.com me: hey there, how's it going?

Jessica: hi, fine me: you remember me at all? We were going to go on a date but we never got around to it and then I moved to Texas me: fun was had by all me: anyway, just wanted to say hi, take it easy

Jessica: yeah, i do

Jessica: hi

Jessica: how's texas?

me: It's good, I don't get out much, been spending most of my time working on Anonymous stuff and other projects me: I came up to NYC for about a week last month, though

Jessica: cool, sounds good

Jessica: the hacker group?

me: Only a few of us are actually hackers me: And we're shifting emphasis from hacking/DDOSing to other forms of attacks me: research-oriented stuff, working with a lot of journalists to promote investigation into little-known topics me: sorry, DDOS is a distributed denial of service attack used to bring down websites me: we've been hitting Iran over the past 48 hours

Jessica: very cool me: I don't know how to do any of that, though, I serve as a sort of propagandist me: how's work and everything?

Jessica: pretty good

Jessica: no longer at slate

Jessica: doing stuff for the daily, freelancing me: word

me: I started writing for Guardian and al-Jazeera but now I'm kind of forced into doing film

Jessica: ah cool
